Notes:

- 1) I deleted half of the boxes for student pairings in lieu of more detailed student pairings. I believe that having a small section where I can write small details about how effectively a pair worked would be beneficial to identifying effective pairs for the future using past pairing details.
- 2) I've also added a spot where I can write if someone is absent or not giving me the ability to track if someone is regularly late or absent and so I can pair them up with other students of that kind as to not impede the group learning of non-tardy students.
- 3) The classroom that I've chosen puts students in table groups of four, allowing not only for pairs of students to work together, but also for larger groups of four to work together towards a common goal.
